

ILLUSTRATED Evening Ledger

SATURDAY
July 15, 1916

CAMP AND SEASHORE ARE THE MOST PICTURESQUE SPOTS IN THE NEWS FOCUS THESE HOT DAYS

From a Staff Photographer.
OUR PHILADELPHIA ENGINEERS CERTAINLY KNOW HOW A CAMP SHOULD BE LAID OUT

Quarters of Company B, located on the mesa near El Paso, furnish an interesting glimpse of the manner in which our Quaker City boys at the border make themselves comfortable while in active service.

THE WHITE SOX
HAVE FAIR EMULATORS

Bathing stockings of snowy hue are popular, but not nearly so much as their dainty wearers.

QUEEN OF BURLESQUE SNAPPED AT RINGSIDE
Mollie Williams saw her first real big battle when she witnessed the Jack Dillon-Battling Levinsky bout at Baltimore last Thursday—and she enjoyed every minute of it. She rooted for Levinsky.

STRIPES PREVAIL UP AND DOWN THE BEACH

Awninglike effective bathing costumes predominate to an extent that renders it impossible to mistake a mermaid for a shark at any of our coast resorts.

SUGGESTS THE ONCE-FAMOUS TROCHA

German spies captured in the recent French offensive are herded into barbed-wire enclosures behind the lines until their transfer to detention camps in France.

Photo by Underwood & Underwood.

JUST A MILITARY SHOWER BATH

Lieutenant Brothers, of the 2d Regiment, is spraying a brother officer, Lieutenant Widman, in the camp of the Philadelphia regiment near El Paso.

Photo by a Staff Photographer.